

PROGRAMME SPECIFICATION

This document describes Single, Joint and Minor Honours Degree Programmes in Philosophy. The specification is valid for new entrants from September 2016.

(A) The aims of the Single honour degree in Philosophy are:

- to expose students to a broad and coherent philosophical curriculum that draws on both the European and Anglo-American traditions;
- to present an appreciation of philosophy that stresses its pertinence to other areas of intellectual inquiry;
- to provide students with sufficient choice to allow them to pursue their philosophical interests where possible;
- to engender a range of subject-specific and general intellectual skills through a variety of learning activities geared to the study and practice of philosophy;
- to develop a friendly, stimulating, and supportive academic environment that encourages each student to strive to achieve their potential in philosophy;
- to inculcate an active sense of the interplay between the intellectual-historical and ahistorical dimensions of philosophical inquiry;
- to present philosophy's significance both for one's self-understanding and for one's critical engagement with issues of public importance;
- to enable students to take an active role in shaping the development of their philosophical interests;
- to expose students to some major issues at the frontiers of philosophical debate and research;
- to enable students to develop independent critical thinking and judgement by taking progressive responsibility for their own learning, concluding the process in the final year through the production of an extended piece of philosophical writing.

(B) The aims of Joint degrees with Philosophy as an equal component are:

- to expose students to a broad and coherent philosophical curriculum that draws on both the European and Anglo-American traditions;
- to present an appreciation of philosophy that stresses its pertinence to other areas of intellectual inquiry;
- to provide students with sufficient choice to allow them to pursue their philosophical interests where possible;
- to engender a range of subject-specific and general intellectual skills through a variety of learning activities geared to the study and practice of philosophy;
- to develop a friendly, stimulating, and supportive academic environment that encourages each student to strive to achieve their potential in philosophy;
- to inculcate an active sense of the interplay between the intellectual-historical and ahistorical dimensions of philosophical inquiry;
- to present philosophy's significance both for one's self-understanding and for one's critical engagement with issues of public importance;
- to provide the conceptual tools with which students can deepen their intellectual engagement with their combined subject;
- to prepare students to engage critically with the work of contemporary philosophers;
- to enable students to develop independent critical thinking and judgement by taking progressive responsibility for their own learning.

(C) The aims of the Minor degree in Philosophy are:

- to expose students to a broad and coherent philosophical curriculum that draws on both the European and Anglo-American traditions;
- to present an appreciation of philosophy that stresses its pertinence to other areas of intellectual inquiry;

- to provide students with sufficient choice to allow them to pursue their philosophical interests where possible;
- to engender a range of subject-specific and general intellectual skills through a variety of learning activities geared to the study and practice of philosophy.

Programmes are delivered in three stages, each of which comprises one year of full-time study during which the student must follow courses to the value of four units made up of an equivalent number of whole (1.0) and half (0.5) units (one unit is equivalent to 30 national credits).

For Minor programmes, one unit each year is taken from a list of approved courses validated specifically for philosophy programmes. Each year three units are taken in the Major subject.

For Joint programmes, two units each year are taken from a list of approved philosophy courses, which includes both those validated specifically for philosophy programmes and a selection from those offered by PIR and other departments that help realise the programmes' aims. Each year two units are taken from the cognate disciplinary area.

For Single honours philosophy, four units each year are taken from a list of approved courses, which includes both those validated specifically for philosophy programmes and those offered by PIR and other departments that help realise the programmes' aims.

Through a balance of compulsory courses and options, the programmes instantiate a progressive structure wherein students acquire both an increasing knowledge and understanding of philosophy and, in the case of Joint degrees, a deepening awareness of how that both extends and is in turn extended by their combined subject of study. This conception of progression and the students' growing intellectual independence is reflected in the requirement, at stage three, that all Single honours students complete a dissertation in philosophy.

This document provides a summary of the main features of the programme(s), and of the outcomes which a student might reasonably be expected to achieve if full advantage is taken of the learning opportunities provided. Further information is contained in the College prospectus, the College Regulations and in various handbooks issued to students upon arrival. Whilst Royal Holloway keeps all its information for prospective applicants and students under review, programmes and the availability of individual courses are necessarily subject to change at any time, and prospective applicants are therefore advised to seek confirmation of any factors which might affect their decision to follow a specific programme. In turn, Royal Holloway will inform applicants and students as soon as is practicable of any substantial changes which might affect their studies.

Learning outcomes

Teaching and learning in the programme are closely informed by the active research of staff. In general terms, the programmes provide opportunities for students to develop and demonstrate the following learning outcomes:

Teaching, learning and assessment

Teaching, learning and assessment methods serve the programme aims by recognising the students' expanding knowledge and command of correlated skills as they progress from stage one to stage three and both acknowledging and encouraging their increased intellectual independence. Consequently, at stages one and two the primary method of teaching is to combine lectures, which are used to map out a conceptual area and help orientate students in it, with small-group seminars where students are able to test their developing understanding through presentations and discussion and focussed learning tasks (précis, timed analysis, etc.). In the case of Single Honours students this approach is exemplified in the compulsory stage one course Tutorial Special Study. These formative modes are supplemented with summative essays and examinations. From stage two onwards the emphasis on independent learning arising from the students' growing knowledge, and their desire to follow their interests is reflected in more specialised courses for which a formal distinction between lecture and seminar is no longer entirely appropriate. Here the shift in formative assessment is towards presentations of work-in-progress and one-to-one advice on essay planning at both the conceptual and structural level. Full details of the assessments for individual courses can be obtained from the Department of Politics and International Relations.

Programmes including an International Year

Students must take courses at an overseas university nominated through the Erasmus or Student Exchange Programmes. The equivalent of a full academic load at the overseas university must be taken. The courses to be taken overseas are to be agreed with the Tutor for International Studies in the Department. The marks achieved are converted into equivalent College marks and count as a thirteenth unit. This will contribute 20% to the final stage three marks.

Progression and award requirements

The progression and award requirements are essentially the same across all Honours Degree programmes at Royal Holloway as outlined in the College's Undergraduate Regulations. Students must pass units to the value of at least three units on each stage of the programme. Failing marks of 30 – 39% can normally be condoned in up to 30 credits across stages 1 and 2. In the final stage failing marks in up to 30 credits can normally be condoned. However, on some programmes there may be a requirement to pass specific courses in order to progress to the next stage or to qualify for a particular degree title and this will put restrictions on courses in which failing marks can be condoned (see programme structure above for details). Additionally there are requirements on the number of courses that must be passed in order to qualify for particular joint or combined Honours degrees.

Students are considered for the award and classified on the basis of a weighted average. This is calculated from marks gained in courses taken in stages two and three, and gives twice the weighting to marks gained in stage three. The College's Undergraduate Regulations include full details on progression and award requirements for all undergraduate programmes offered by the College.

All first year students on Single, Joint or Combined Honours programmes offered all or in part by departments or schools in the Faculty of Arts & Social Science are required to pass a Moodle-based writing skills quiz in order to progress into the second year of study. The pass mark for the test is 60%. Certificates of Distinction are awarded to students who achieve at least 80% in the quiz. Students may attempt the quiz as often as they wish with no penalties or capping. Students who meet the requirements for progression as stipulated in the College's Undergraduate Regulations (Section: Conditions for progression to the next stage) but fail to pass the Moodle-based quiz will not be permitted to progress into their second year of academic study at the College.

Student support and guidance

- All students are allocated a personal adviser, who meets with them regularly throughout the programme. The adviser's role is to advise on academic, pastoral and welfare issues.
- Representation on the Student-Staff Committee.
- All teaching staff, course co-ordinators, seminar leaders and administrative staff provide a back-up system of academic, pastoral and welfare issues.
- All staff are available and accessible through a dedicated office hours system.

For students registered in or after September 2016

Admission requirements

Details of the Department's typical offer for each programme of study is available on the Course Finder web page. However, the Department also has flexibility in its admissions and offers policy and strongly encourages applications from non-standard applicants. Students whose first language is not English may also be asked for a qualification in English Language at an appropriate level. For further guidance it may be helpful to contact the Recruitment and Partnerships Office.

Philosophy minor programme

For details of admission requirements for Honours Degrees with a Minor in Philosophy please consult the programme specification for the Honours degree programme that constitutes the major part of the programme.

Further learning and career opportunities

The range of skills and conceptual acuity developed through the study of Philosophy provide students with the sort of flexibility that opens up a wide variety of career and postgraduate opportunities (although there is no comparable study in the UK, statistics in the US show that Philosophy students score highest in the GRE verbal section, second on the GMAT, and third on the LSAT). Comparable universities in the UK show that within six months their graduates who chose not to pursue a postgraduate qualification (including law and teaching) are likely to be in jobs ranging from financial analyst and management consultant through to editorial assistant, policy advisor, and rights activist. For further details please refer to the Careers & Employability Service.

Indicators of quality and standards

Royal Holloway's position as one of the UK's leading research-intensive institutions was confirmed by the results of the most recent Research Excellence Framework (REF 2014) conducted by the Higher Education Funding Council (HEFCE). The scoring system for the REF 2014 measures research quality in four categories, with the top score of 4* indicating quality that is world-leading and of the highest standards in terms of originality, significance and rigour and 3* indicating research that is internationally excellent. 81% of the College's research profile was deemed to be within the 4* or 3* categories, an increase of over 20% since 2008. This result placed Royal Holloway 31st overall in the UK for 4* and 3* research and 33rd based on an overall Grade Point Average (GPA) score.

The Department of Politics and International Relations is ranked 37th in the UK for research of 4* standard and 18th for 3* and 4* research.

List of programmes

All the programmes are taught by staff at Royal Holloway, University of London, and lead to awards of the University of London. Programmes in Philosophy are not subject to accreditation by a professional body. The QAA subject benchmark statement in Philosophy describes the general features which one might expect from Honours Degree programmes in the subject, and can therefore be used as a point of reference when reading this document (see www.qaa.ac.uk). UCAS codes are given in parentheses (see www.ucas.ac.uk).
