

PROGRAMME SPECIFICATION

This document describes Honours Degree programmes in English. For Joint and Combined Honours Degree programmes, please also refer to the equivalent document(s) for the other subject(s). This specification is valid for new entrants from September 2015.

The aims of all Honours Degree programmes in English are:

- to enable students to develop independent critical thinking and judgement;
- to engage students imaginatively in the process of reading and analysing literary texts;
- to encourage students to appreciate the expressive resources of language;
- to encourage students to reflect critically upon the act of reading;
- to promote an understanding of formal, generic and aesthetic aspects of literary texts;
- to promote the reading of Old English, Middle English and Renaissance texts in the original;
- to encourage an awareness of literature's historical dimension;
- to foster an awareness of contextual aspects of the production and determination of meaning;
- to develop a range of subject-specific and transferable skills;
- to provide a basis for further study in English or related disciplines, and a foundation of knowledge for teachers of English at all levels;
- to provide an intellectually stimulating and satisfying experience of studying;
- to encourage in students a sense of enthusiasm for the subject, and an appreciation of its continuing social and cultural importance;
- to encourage students to take progressive responsibility for their own study through negotiating subject areas of specialism with each other in seminars and study groups, through the informed choice of options, and through an extended piece of writing in the final year.

Programmes are delivered in three stages, each of which comprises one year of full-time study during which the student must follow courses to the value of four units (one unit is equivalent to 30 national credits). The programmes provide progressive structures in which students are able to gain ever-wider knowledge and understanding, and appropriate skills. The programmes contain a combination of compulsory core courses to introduce students to historical periods, to the principle literary genres, and to contemporary critical and theoretical approaches, with a range of stage two and three specialist options. In each case the structure encourages students, in stage two and three, to develop their own interests through informed choice among specialist options. In stage three all students are required to write a dissertation and/or long essays. The programmes aim to produce graduates with a range of personal attributes relevant to the world beyond HE, who are able to engage in lifelong learning, to consider ethics and values, and to contribute to the wider community.

- sensitivity and responsiveness to language and literary form and an understanding of generic conventions;
- the ability to evaluate relevant critical, theoretical and contextual research;
- the ability to conduct literary research independently using traditional and electronic resources;
- the ability to articulate knowledge and the understanding of texts, concepts and theories relating to English literature;
- command of a wider vocabulary and appropriate critical and theoretical terminology;
- bibliographical skills appropriate to the subject including accurate citation of sources and consistent use of conventions in the presentation of scholarly work;
- judging and evaluating evidence;
- assessing the merits of competing theories, explanations and interpretations;
- analysing and interpreting bodies of information;
- abstracting and synthesising information;
- developing a reasoned argument;
- planning and execution of essays and project-work;
- developing habits of reflection on reading, learning and of study, learning and research;*
- listening to, and learning from, criticism;*
- advanced written and oral communication skills;*
- the ability to present logical and coherent written and oral arguments of varying lengths;*
- the capacity to analyse and critically examine diverse forms of discourse;*
- the ability to organise and interpret complex information in a structured and systematic way;*
- the ability to comprehend and develop sophisticated concepts;*

Teaching, learning and assessment

Teaching and learning is mostly by means of lectures; seminars; study groups; essay consultations; oral presentations and guided independent study. Assessment of knowledge and understanding is typically by formal examinations, coursework, examined essays, translation exercises, online tests and exercises, oral presentations and the dissertation or long essay. In addition, students may be involved in workshops and may produce various forms of creative or editorial work. Full details of the assessments for individual courses can be obtained from the Department.

Progression and award requirements

The progression and award requirements are essentially the same across all Honours Degree programmes at Royal Holloway as outlined in the College's Undergraduate Regulations. Students must pass units to the value of at least three units on each stage of the programme. Failing marks of 30 – 39% can normally be condoned in up to 30 credits across stages 1 and 2. In the final stage failing marks in up to 30 credits can normally be condoned. However, on some programmes there may be a requirement to pass specific courses in order to progress to the next stage or to qualify for a particular degree title and this will put restrictions on courses in which failing marks can be condoned (see programme structure above for details). Additionally there are requirements on the number of courses that must be passed in order to qualify for particular joint or combined Honours degrees.

All first year students on single joint or combined honours programmes offered all or in part by departments or schools in the Faculty of Arts & Social Science are required to pass a Moodle-based writing skills quiz in order to progress into the second year of study. The pass mark for the test is 60%. Certificates of Distinction are awarded to students who achieve at least 80% in the quiz. Students may attempt the quiz as often as they wish with no penalties or capping. Students who meet the requirements for progression as stipulated in the College's Undergraduate Regulations (Section: Conditions for progression to the next stage) but fail to pass the Moodle-based quiz will not be permitted to progress into their second year of academic study at the College.

Students are considered for the award and classified on the basis of a weighted average. This is calculated from marks gained in courses taken in stages two and three, and gives twice the weighting to marks gained in stage three. The College's Undergraduate Regulations include full details on progression and award requirements for all undergraduate programmes offered by the College.

Student support and guidance

- Personal Advisers: All students are allocated a personal adviser who meets with them regularly through the programme. The adviser's role is to advise on academic, pastoral and welfare issues. Students meet with their personal advisers two or three times during the first term. Subsequently, responsibility for meetings is placed on the student. Joint Honours students will have a Personal Adviser in each department.
- The Year Tutor is at the centre of the Department's student support systems. Year Tutors are available for academic, pastoral and welfare advice. They play a pro-active role in all three areas. They are in regular communication with students, course leaders, seminar leaders, the administrator and the Programme Co-ordinator.
- The Programme Co-ordinator and the administrator provide a back-up system of academic, pastoral and welfare advice. They also monitor Year Tutors, personal advisers, course leaders and seminar leaders.
- All staff available and accessible through dedicated office hours system.
- Detailed student handbook and course resources.
- Departmental reading room, with collection of articles and books supporting teaching and learning.
- Extensive supporting materials and learning resources in College libraries and Computer Centre.
- College Careers and Employability Service and Departmental Careers and Employability Tutor.
- Access to all College and University support services, including Student Counselling Service, Health Centre and the Disability and Dyslexia Services for students with disabilities and Specific Learning Difficulties.
- Representation on the Student-Staff Committee.

Admission requirements

Details of the Department's typical offer for each programme of study is available on the Course Finder web page. However, the Department also has flexibility in its admissions and offers policy and strongly encourages applications from non-standard applicants. Students whose first language is not English may also be asked for a qualification in English Language at an appropriate level. For further guidance it may be helpful to contact the Recruitment and Partnerships Office.

Indicators of quality and standards

Royal Holloway's position as one of the UK's leading research-intensive institutions was confirmed by the results of the most recent Research Excellence Framework (REF 2014) conducted by the Higher Education Funding Council (HEFCE). The scoring system for the REF 2014 measures research quality in four categories, with the top score of 4* indicating quality that is world-leading and of the highest standards in terms of originality, significance and rigour and 3* indicating research that is internationally excellent. 81% of the College's research profile was deemed to be within the 4* or 3* categories, an increase of over 20% since 2008. This result placed Royal Holloway 31st overall in the UK for 4* and 3* research and 33rd based on an overall Grade Point Average (GPA) score.

The Department of English is ranked 14th in the UK for research of 4* standard and 31st for 3* and 4* research.
