

PROGRAMME SPECIFICATION

This document describes the Master of Science, Postgraduate Diploma and Postgraduate Certificate in International Relations; Master of Science, Postgraduate Diploma and Postgraduate Certificate in International Public Policy; Master of Science, Postgraduate Diploma and Postgraduate Certificate in International Security; Master of Science, Postgraduate Diploma and Postgraduate Certificate in Media, Power and Public Affairs; Master of Science, Postgraduate Diploma and Postgraduate Certificate in Elections, Campaigns and Democracy; and Master of Arts in Islamic & West Asian Studies

This specification is valid for new entrants from September 2019.

The aims of the programmes are:

- to provide a systematic understanding and knowledge of theories, institutions, and practices in the disciplines of politics and international relations generally and in specific sub-disciplines related to individual programme streams in particular;
- to encourage a critical awareness of current problems and developments in political science and international relations generally and in specific sub-disciplines related to individual programme streams in particular;
- to provide theoretical insights and methodological techniques relevant to the creation and interpretation of knowledge in politics and international relations and to the critical evaluation of current research and advanced scholarship in that field;
- to provide training in research techniques in the field of study;
- to foster an independent learning ability required for continuing professional development;
- to develop key communications, IT and management skills relevant for postgraduate work.

The programmes are delivered over one year of full-time study (52 weeks) or up to five years of part-time study (260 weeks). Teaching takes place during the day over two terms from September to April. The dissertation is submitted in September. Whilst being a self-contained degree in its own right, each programme provides suitable and recognised qualifications for entry to PhD study in the same or a closely related field.

Further information

Learning outcomes

Teaching, learning and assessment

Details of the programme structure\(s\)

Progression and award requirements

Student support and guidance

Admission requirements

Further learning and career opportunities

Indicators of quality and standards

List of programmes, with details of awards, degree titles, accreditation and teaching arrangements

This document provides a summary of the main features of the programmes, and of the outcomes which a student might reasonably be expected to achieve if full advantage is taken of the learning opportunities provided. Further information is contained in the College prospectus, the College Regulations and in various handbooks issued to students upon arrival. Whilst Royal Holloway keeps all its information for prospective applicants and students under review, programmes and the availability of individual courses are necessarily subject to change at any time, and prospective applicants are therefore advised to seek confirmation of any factors which might affect their decision to follow a specific programme. In turn, Royal Holloway will inform applicants and students as soon as is practicable of any substantial changes which might affect their studies.

Learning outcomes

Teaching and learning in the programmes are closely informed by the active research of staff. In general terms, the programmes provide opportunities for students to develop and demonstrate the following learning outcomes:

Knowledge and understanding

- an advanced knowledge and critical understanding of key concepts, theoretical debates, and developments applicable to the specific field;
- a sound knowledge of the texts, theories and methods used to enhance understanding of the issues, processes and phenomena associated with particular fields of politics and international relations;
- an advanced knowledge and critical understanding of research methods within the disciplines of politics and international relations;
- knowledge of advanced scholarship in the chosen area of the discipline to a level appropriate for an MSc degree.

Skills and other attributes

- the ability to evaluate relevant critical, theoretical and contextual research at the forefront of the field;
- the ability to articulate knowledge and the understanding of texts, concepts and theories at an advanced level, demonstrating self-direction and originality;
- the ability to assess the nature and value of a wide variety of source materials – including, where appropriate, academic commentaries, research-based literature, official publications and statistics, journalistic sources, political biographies – and make effective use of such materials;
- the ability to develop their own lines of criticism and argument;*
- the ability to conduct research independently at an advanced level using traditional and electronic resources;*
- the ability to assess the merits of contrasting theories, explanations and policies;*
- the ability to develop reasoned and balanced arguments;*
- the ability to manipulate precise and intricate ideas, construct logical arguments and use technical terminology correctly;*
- the ability to deal with complex issues, both systematically and creatively, and make sound judgments;*
- the ability to identify, investigate, analyse, formulate and advocate solutions to problems;*
- the ability to communicate complex information and ideas effectively, both orally and in writing;*
- the ability to write up a substantial dissertation project, using the appropriate methodological and bibliographical skills;*

In addition, the programmes foster the development of a range of personal attributes that are important in the world of work, and that strengthens our postgraduates' abilities to engage in lifelong learning and contribute to the wider community. These include personal motivation; the ability to work autonomously and with others; self-awareness and self-management; empathy and insight; intellectual integrity; awareness of responsibility as a local, national and international citizen; interest in lifelong learning; flexibility and adaptability; creativity.

* transferable skills

Back to top

Teaching, learning and assessment

Teaching and learning is delivered primarily by means of seminar discussions, informal lectures, oral presentations, guided independent research, and guided independent study. Assessment takes the form of various formative and summative assignments, including, in the case of some courses, an unseen written exam. The final assignment for each MSc programme is a dissertation on a topic developed in consultation with an assigned supervisor. It is expected that the dissertation will be researched and written primarily in the summer months, although supervision and dissertation training will begin during the academic year. Full details of assessments, including submission schedules and marking criteria, can be found in the Programme Handbook. Particular teaching and learning methods and specific assignments for each course are written into the various course outlines. Full details of individual courses can be obtained from the Department.

Back to top

Details of the programme structures

The full-time programme is one year (52 weeks) and begins in September.

The brief outline of each programme is shown below; however students can obtain further details from the Programme Handbook. Credits are indicated in brackets, and indicate proportional weighting towards the MA, PGDip and PGCert classification grade.

Each programme covers a wide array of sub-disciplines in politics and international relations. In addition to common mandatory courses for each programme, each programme also has particular required courses and options.

Please note that the list of available courses offered is subject to change and not all courses run each year. A full list of courses for the current academic year can be obtained from the Department.

MSc in International Relations

This programme is ideal for those interested in key issues in international affairs and theories and concepts of International Relations.

Mandatory methods (40 credits)	Mandatory courses (20 credits)	Options (20 credits each)	Dissertation (60 credits)
Students must take: PR5949 Researching Politics and International Relations (40 credits)	Students must take the following course: PR5432 Analysing International Politics (20 credits) Mandatory Non-Condonable (Must be passed in order to progress to the next stage)	Students must choose from among available courses to make a total of 120 credits including mandatory methods and mandatory courses: Politics and International Relations: Units exploring International Relations Politics and International Relations: Units exploring International Security Politics and International Relations: Units exploring International Development Politics and International Relations: Units exploring Comparative Politics Politics and International Relations: Units exploring Political Communication Politics and International Relations: Units exploring Political Theory	Students must undertake a dissertation on an aspect of international relations

The programme structure for the PG Dip is as above, with the exception that students will not undertake the dissertation and must pass courses to the total value of 120 credits to include PR5949 Researching Politics and International Relations (40 credits) and PR5432 Analysing International Politics.

For the PG Cert students must pass courses to the total value of 60 credits to include:

Either

PR5949 Researching Politics and International Relations (40 credits) and PR5432 Analysing International Politics (20 credits)

Or

PR5432 Analysing International Politics (20 credits) and two 20 credit optional courses.

MSc in International Public Policy

This programme is ideal for those interested in a broad-based advanced grounding in international public policy.

Mandatory methods (40 credits)	Mandatory Courses (20 credits)	Options (20 credits each)	Dissertation (60 credits)
Students must take: PR5949 Researching Politics and International Relations (40 credits)	Students must take the following courses: PR5948 International Public Policy (20 credits) Mandatory Non-Condonable (Must be passed in order to progress to the next stage) AND PR5961 International Policy Practice (20 credits) Mandatory Non-Condonable (Must be passed in order to progress to the next stage)	Students must choose from among available courses to make a total of 120 credits including mandatory methods and mandatory courses: Politics and International Relations: Units exploring International Relations Politics and International Relations: Units exploring International Security Politics and International Relations: Units exploring International Development Politics and International Relations: Units exploring Comparative Politics Politics and International Relations: Units exploring Political Communication Politics and International Relations: Units exploring Political Theory	Students must undertake a dissertation on an aspect of international public policy

The programme structure for the PGDip is as above, with the exception that students will not undertake the dissertation and must pass courses to the total value of 120 credits to include PR5949 Researching Politics and International Relations (40 credits) and in addition the following mandatory courses, PR5943 International Public Policy (20 credits) and PR5961 International Policy Practice (20 credits).

For the PG Cert students must pass courses to the total value of 60 credits to include:

Either

PR5949 Researching Politics and International Relations (40 credits) and PR5948 International Public Policy (20 credits)

Or

PR5961 International Policy Practice (20 credits) and PR5948 International Public Policy (20 credits) and one optional course (20 credits)

MSc International Security

The core of the programme traces the security studies discipline from its traditional approaches through its evolution to include ever more transnational dynamics. The degree will provide students with both a firm academic foundation in the security studies discipline as well as a base of knowledge for careers in fields of policymaking, international organizations, non-governmental organizations, and more.

Mandatory methods (40 credits)	Mandatory Courses (20 credits)	Options (20 credits each)	Dissertation (60 credits)
Students must take: PR5949 Researching Politics and International Relations (40 credits))	Students must take the following: PR5924 International Security (20 credits) Mandatory Non-Condonable (Must be passed in order to progress to the next stage)	Students must choose from among available courses to make a total of 120 credits including mandatory methods and mandatory courses: Politics and International Relations: Units exploring International Security Politics and International Relations: Units exploring International Relations Politics and International Relations: Units exploring International Development Politics and International Relations: Units exploring Comparative Politics Politics and International Relations: Units exploring Political Communication Politics and International Relations: Units exploring Political Theory	Students must undertake a dissertation on an aspect of International Security

The programme structure for the PGDip is as above, with the exception that students will not undertake the dissertation and must pass courses to the total value of 120 credits to include PR5949 Researching Politics and International Relations (40 credits) and PR5924 International Security (20 credits).

For the PG Cert students must pass courses to the total value of 60 credits to include:

Either

PR5949 Researching Politics and International Relations (40 credits) and PR5924 International Security (20 credits)

Or

PR5924 International Security (20 credits) and two 20 credit courses.

MSc Media, Power and Public Affairs

For those seeking to understand the interplay between digital new media and communication technologies, political institutions, behaviour and public policy, with emphases on citizen engagement, mobilization, campaigning, and the role of new media in the global system.

Mandatory Methods (40 credits)	Mandatory courses (20 credits)	Options (20 credits each)	Dissertation (60 credits)
Students must take: PR5949 Researching Politics and International Relations (40 credits)	Students must take: PR5422 Media, Power and Public Affairs (20 credits) Mandatory Non-Condonable (Must be passed in order to progress to the next stage) Plus at least one of the following: PR5907 Media, War and Conflict (20 credits) AND/OR PR5964 Strategic Political Communication (20 credits)	Students must choose from among available courses to make a total of 120 credits including mandatory methods and mandatory courses: Politics and International Relations: Units exploring Political Communication Politics and International Relations: Units exploring Comparative Politics Politics and International Relations: Units exploring International Relations Politics and International Relations: Units exploring International Security Politics and International Relations: Units exploring International Development Politics and International Relations: Units exploring Political Theory	Students must undertake a dissertation on an aspect of new political communication.

The programme structure for the PGDip is as above, with the exception that students will not undertake the dissertation and must pass courses to the total value of 120 credits to include PR5949 Researching Politics and International Relations (40 credits), PR5422 Media, Power and Public Affairs (20 credits) and at least one of the following courses: PR5907 Media, War and Conflict; PR5964 Strategic Political Communication (20 credits)

For the PG Cert students must pass courses to the total value of 60 credits to include:

Either

PR5422 Media, Power and Public Affairs (20 credits) and at least one of:

PR5964 Strategic Political Communication (20 credits);

PR5907 Media, War and Conflict (20 credits);

with any remaining credits from an optional course

or

PR5949 Researching Politics and International Relations (40 credits) and PR5422 Media, Power and Public Affairs (20 credits)

MSc in Elections, Campaigns and Democracy

This programme is ideal for those interested in how political parties work, approach elections, campaigning and democracy.

Mandatory methods (40 credits)	Mandatory Courses (20 credits)	Options (20 credits each)	Dissertation (60 credits)
Students must take: PR5949 Researching Politics and International Relations (40 credits)	Students must take the following: PR5944 Elections and Campaigning (20 credits) Mandatory Non-Condonable (Must be passed in order to progress to the next stage) Plus at least one of the following: PR5942 Analysing Public Opinion AND/OR PR5964 Strategic Political Communication	Students must choose from among available courses to make a total of 120 credits including mandatory methods and mandatory courses: Politics and International Relations: Units exploring Comparative Politics Politics and International Relations: Units exploring Political Communication Politics and International Relations: Units exploring Political Theory Politics and International Relations: Units exploring International Relations Politics and International Relations: Units exploring International Security Politics and International Relations: Units exploring International Development	Students must undertake a dissertation on an aspect of elections, campaigns and/or democracy.

The programme structure for the PGDip is as above, with the exception that students will not undertake the dissertation and must pass courses to the total value of 120 credits to include PR5949 Researching Politics and International Relations (40 credits), PR5944 Elections and Campaigning (20 credits) and at least one course between PR5942 Analysing Public Opinion and PR5964 Strategic Political Communication.

For the PG Cert students must pass courses to the total value of 60 credits to include:

Either

PR5949 Researching Politics and International Relations (40 credits) and PR5944 Elections and Campaigning (20 credits).

Or

PR5944 Elections and Campaigning (20 credits) and at least one of PR5942 Analysing Public Opinion (20 credits) or PR5964 Strategic Political Communication (20 credits), with any remaining credits from an optional course (20 credits).

MA in Islamic & West Asian Studies

This programme is designed for students who are fascinated by the Islamic and West Asian world, and those interested in a career in international affairs or keen to pursue further research on Muslim and West Asian communities.

Mandatory methods (40/20 credits)	Mandatory courses (20 credits)	Options (20 credits each)	Dissertation (60 credits)
Students must take 1 from the following: PR5949 Researching Politics and International Relations (40 credits) OR HS5450 History Past and Present (20 credits) OR HS5217 Research Development Course (20 credits)	Students must take the following courses: HS5425 Introduction to the Historical Study of the Modern Muslim World (20 credits) Mandatory Non-Condonable (Must be passed in order to progress to the next stage) AND PR5963 Islam and West Asia in International Relations (20 credits) Mandatory Non-Condonable (Must be passed in order to progress to the next stage)	Students must choose from among available courses to make a total of 120 credits including mandatory methods and mandatory courses: Politics and International Relations: Units exploring Comparative Politics Politics and International Relations: Units exploring Political Communication Politics and International Relations: Units exploring Political Theory Politics and International Relations: Units exploring International Relations Politics and International Relations: Units exploring International Security Politics and International Relations: Units exploring International Development History: Units exploring Islam History: Units exploring the Middle East	Students must undertake a dissertation on an aspect of Islamic and West Asian Studies.

The programme structure for the PGDip is as above, with the exception that students will not undertake the dissertation and must pass courses to the total value of 120 credits to include PR5XXX Researching Politics and International Relations (40 credits), HS5425 Introduction to the Historical Study of the Modern Muslim World (20 credits) and PR5963 Islam and West Asia in International Relations (20 credits).

For the PG Cert students must pass courses to the total value of 60 credits to include:

Either

PR5963 Islam and West Asia in International Relations (20 credits) and HS5425 Introduction to the Historical Study of the Modern Muslim World (20 credits) and the remaining credits to be an optional course (20 credits)

Or

PR5949 Researching Politics and International Relations (40 credits) and PR5963 Islam and West Asia in International Relations (20 credits)

For students first registered in or after September 2019

Version 4

02/07/2019

Part-time programme structure

The part-time programme normally lasts two years (104 weeks), beginning in September of year one. Part-time students normally complete their mandatory courses in the first year and take their option courses in the second year, submitting their dissertation at the end of the second year.

Postgraduate Diploma

The programmes are also offered at Postgraduate Diploma level (full- and part-time), whose structure is identical except that students do not write a dissertation. Students who are successful on the Diploma may transfer to the MSc subject to academic approval; alternatively, the Diploma may be awarded to MSc students who choose not to do the dissertation or who fail that component of the programme.

Back to top

Progression and award requirements

Progression throughout the year(s) is monitored through performance in oral presentations, contributions to seminar discussion and coursework.

Please note that if you hold a Tier 4 (General) Student Visa and you choose to leave (or are required to leave because of non-progression) or complete early (before the course end date stated on your CAS), then this will be reported to UKVI.

For further information on progression and award requirements, please refer to the Postgraduate Taught Regulations.

Back to top

Student support and guidance

- The Programme Director meets with the students on a regular basis to advise on academic, pastoral and welfare issues. The Programme Director acts as a point of contact for pastoral support and any questions about the programme throughout the year.
- Course coordinators, tutors and dissertation supervisors provide a back-up system of academic, pastoral and welfare advice.
- All students are allocated a Personal Tutor, with whom they can meet as required, to discuss all matters relating to their programme and for pastoral support.

In addition, students on these programmes have:

- Induction programmes for orientation and introduction to the Department and College by the Director of Graduate Studies.
- All staff available and accessible through an office-hour system.
- Representation on the Student-Staff Committee.
- Detailed MSc handbook and course booklets.
- Extensive supporting materials and learning resources in College and University libraries, as well as the Computer Centre.
- Dedicated Departmental computing facilities.
- College Careers Service and Departmental Employability Lead officer.
- Access to all College and University support services, including Student Counselling Service, Health Centre, Students' Union and students with additional learning needs also have access to Disability and Dyslexia Services (DDS).

Back to top

Admission requirements

For details of admission requirements please refer to the Course Finder

For students first registered in or after September 2019

Version 4

02/07/2019

Back to top

Further learning and career opportunities

The MSc provides a firm foundation for postgraduate study and research, and graduates of programmes offered by the department have gone on to more advanced research degrees at Royal Holloway and elsewhere. There are PhD opportunities in the department, which has a vibrant and growing research student community. The MSc and Postgraduate Diploma also provide graduates with a range of intellectual, personal and social skills that are transferable to a wide variety of employment opportunities. Careers which will especially suit politics and international relations graduates include work in the civil service, local government, public and private sector management, political research and lobbying, teaching, and journalism and the media. For more details on further learning and career opportunities please refer to the Careers & Employability Service.

Back to top

Indicators of quality and standards

Royal Holloway's position as one of the UK's leading research-intensive institutions was confirmed by the results of the most recent Research Excellence Framework (REF 2014) conducted by the Higher Education Funding Council (HEFCE). The scoring system for the REF 2014 measures research quality in four categories, with the top score of 4* indicating quality that is world-leading and of the highest standards in terms of originality, significance and rigour and 3* indicating research that is internationally excellent. 81% of the College's research profile was deemed to be within the 4* or 3* categories, an increase of over 20% since 2008. This result placed Royal Holloway 31st overall in the UK for 4* and 3* research and 33rd based on an overall Grade Point Average (GPA) score.

The Department of Politics and International Relations is ranked 37th in the UK for research of 4* standard and 18th for 3* and 4* research.

Back to top

List of programmes with details of awards, teaching arrangements and accreditation

The programme and its streams are taught entirely by staff at Royal Holloway, University of London, and the MSc leads to an award of the University of London. The Postgraduate Diploma and Postgraduate Certificate leads to an award of Royal Holloway and Bedford New College. Programmes in Politics and International Relations are not subject to accreditation by a professional body. The Banner programme codes are given in parentheses.

MSc/ PGDip Elections, Campaigns and Democracy – (2722/2723)

MSc/ PGDip International Relations – (2724/2725)

MSc/ PGDip International Public Policy – (2726/2727)

MSc/ PGDip International Security – (2728/2729)

MSc/ PGDip Media, Power and Public Affairs – (2732/2733)

MA in Islamic & West Asian Studies (3314)

Back to top