

Acknowledging the work of others and presenting and interacting with evidence

1. Find out what referencing system your department uses and find out how you can learn to use it.
2. Find a research article or a book written by an academic in your subject. Study how they refer to the work of other scholars.
3. What opportunities exist for academics to debate ideas? You might think of academic exchanges in journals, or social media 'conversations' between academics.

