

PROGRAMME SPECIFICATION

This document describes the Honours Degree programmes in Film Studies. For Joint and Combined Honours Degree programmes, please also refer to the equivalent document for the other subject. This specification is valid for new entrants from September 2015.

The aims of the Honours Degree programmes in Film Studies are to:

- foster intellectual enquiry into the functions and operations of film, television, video and digital media arts, meeting the general requirements of the subject benchmarking statement in the development of knowledge, understanding, and discipline-specific key skills;
- provide a flexible and progressive structure in which students are able to gain knowledge and understanding of film and television studies;
- offer courses in which teaching is informed by research activity and professional expertise;
- produce graduates who can confidently apply conceptual skills, whether in the communication industries or in the wider world of work or further learning, to contribute to the national and international community.

The programme is delivered full-time in three stages, each of which comprises one year of full-time study during which the student must follow courses to the value of four units (one unit is equivalent to 30 national credits). It is characterised by its progressive structure, which allows for increasing specialisation through the programme. A foundational first year provides the basis for increased specialisation in subsequent years, where students are able to develop and pursue their individual intellectual interests.

Further information

Learning outcomes

Teaching, learning and assessment

Details of the programme structure\(s\)

Progression and award requirements

Student support and guidance

Admission requirements

Further learning and career opportunities

Indicators of quality and standards

List of programmes, with details of awards, degree titles, accreditation and teaching arrangements

This document provides a summary of the main features of the programme(s), and of the outcomes which a student might reasonably be expected to achieve if full advantage is taken of the learning opportunities provided. Further information is contained in the College prospectus, the College Regulations and in various handbooks issued to students upon arrival. Whilst Royal Holloway keeps all its information for prospective applicants and students under review, programmes and the availability of individual courses are necessarily subject to change at any time, and prospective applicants are therefore advised to seek confirmation of any factors which might affect their decision to follow a specific programme. In turn, Royal Holloway will inform applicants and students as soon as is practicable of any substantial changes which might affect their studies.

Learning outcomes

Teaching and learning in the programmes are closely informed by the active research of staff, particularly in the areas of film and television drama, the documentary mode, processes of media signification and their relationship to subjectivity, and theories of contemporary media production and the temporal imagination. The programmes provide opportunities for students to develop and demonstrate the following learning outcomes:

Knowledge and understanding

- understanding and application of theories of meaning and communication in audio-visual media;
- knowledge of selected cinema, television and media art traditions in Europe and North America;
- understanding of the role and significance of audio-visual media in contemporary society;
- understanding forms of communication, media and culture as they have developed historically, with reference to social, cultural and technological change;
- develop substantive and detailed knowledge and understanding in selected areas of the field.
- (English-Film Studies Joint Honours only:) understanding of the historical and aesthetic relationship between literary and moving image media and texts.

Skills and other attributes

- competence in the interpretation of audio-visual texts;
- competence in independent thinking informed by appropriate critical theories of media and culture (for example, gender studies, psychoanalytic theory, cultural studies and postmodernism);
- ability to make informed contributions to debates about communication and public life;
- ability to engage critically with major thinkers, debates and intellectual paradigms within the field and put them to productive use;
- ability to examine media forms critically with appropriate reference to social and cultural contexts and the diversity of contemporary society;
- ability to consider and evaluate own work in a reflective manner, with reference to academic and/or professional issues, debates and conventions;
- ability to carry out analysis, problem-solving, and decision-making, and to abstract and synthesise information;*
- the ability to develop a reasoned argument and to articulate these through written and oral communication;*
- learn and study, take responsibility for own learning, and develop habits of reflection on that learning;*
- information technology (including word processing, email and WWW) and development of specific proficiencies in utilising selected media technologies;*
- information handling and retrieval: identifying, retrieving, synthesising and presenting information, investigating a wide range of sources;*
- interpersonal skills including listening, leadership, responding to others appropriately and contributing to a team;*
- in addition, the programme fosters the development of a range of personal attributes that are important in the world of work, and that strengthen our graduates' abilities to engage in lifelong learning and contribute to the wider community. These include: personal motivation; the ability to work autonomously and with others; creativity; self-awareness and self-management; empathy and insight; intellectual integrity; awareness of responsibility as a local, national and international citizen; interest in lifelong learning; flexibility and adaptability.

* transferable skills

Back to top

Teaching, learning and assessment

Teaching and learning is mostly by means of lectures, seminars, small-group tutorials, guided independent research, and guided independent study. Assessment is by formal examinations, coursework essays and other exercises, oral presentations and through the independent dissertation or research project. Full details of the assessments for individual courses can be obtained from the Department.

Back to top

Details of the programme structure(s)

Please note that the list of available optional courses offered is subject to change and not all courses run each year. A full list of courses for the current academic year can be obtained from the Department.

Single Honours Degree programmes

Stage one:

Students must take the following mandatory courses:

MA1051 Film, Television & Digital History (1 unit)
MA1052 Introduction to Critical Theory and Textual Analysis (1 unit)
MA1054 Introduction to Film Narrative (0.5 unit)
MA1154 Screen Narrative: Theory and Practice (0.5 unit)
ML1101 International Film (0.5 unit)
ML1102 The Birth of Film (0.5 unit)

Stage two:

Students choose five options from courses offered in the Department of Media Arts and three options from the film and television courses offered in the School of Modern Languages, Literatures and Cultures.

Stage three:

Students must choose either:

MA3061 Dissertation (1 unit)

or

MA3062 Media Research Project (1 unit)

Plus choose options totalling three full units. These must include two Media Arts courses to the value of 2 full units and 1 full course unit may be taken from the range of film and television courses offered in the School of Modern Languages, subject to timetabling, availability, and course prerequisites, if any (e.g., language competences).

Combined Honours Degree programmes with Film Studies as a major component:

Please see the Progression and Awards Requirements section below and the College's Undergraduate Regulations with respect to the number of courses which need to be passed in order to qualify for the combined degree title.

Stage one:

Students must take the following mandatory courses:

MA1051 Film, Television & Digital History (1 unit)
MA1052 Introduction to Critical Theory and Textual Analysis (1 unit)
MA1054 Introduction to Film Narrative (0.5 unit)
ML1101 International Film (0.5 unit)

plus specified courses in the other subject.

Stage two:

Students must choose five options from the film and television courses offered in the Department of Media Arts and one option from the School of Modern Languages, Literatures and Cultures plus specified courses in the other subject.

Stage three:

Students must take the following mandatory course:

MA3061 Dissertation (1 unit)

For students registered in or after September 2015

Version 5.0

Dated: 28/08/15

plus choose two Media Arts options,
plus specified courses in the other subject.

Back to top

Joint Honours Degree programme: English and Film Studies

Please see the Progression and Awards Requirements section below and the College's Undergraduate Regulations with respect to the number of courses which need to be passed in order to qualify for the joint degree title.

Stage one:

Students must take the following mandatory courses:

MA1051 Film, Television & Digital History (1 unit)

MA1052 Introduction to Critical Theory and Textual Analysis (1 unit)

and specified courses in English to the value of 2 units.

Stage two:

Students choose four options from theory courses offered in the Department of Media Arts and specified subjects in the other department.

Stage three:

Students must take either:

Stage three (a):

MA3061 Dissertation (1 unit)

plus one course from the list of Stage Three theory options offered in the Department of Media Arts (1 unit) and specified subjects in the other department.

or:

Stage three (b):

Two courses from the list of Stage Three theory options offered in the Department of Media Arts (2 unit) and a Dissertation supervised in the Department of English (1 unit) and courses to the value of 1 full unit from the list of Stage Three courses offered by the Department of English.

Students may only write one dissertation.

Progression and award requirements

The progression and award requirements are essentially the same across all Honours Degree programmes at Royal Holloway as outlined in the College's Undergraduate Regulations. Students must pass units to the value of at least three units on each stage of the programme. Failing marks of 30 – 39% can normally be condoned in up to 30 credits across stages 1 and 2. In the final stage failing marks in up to 30 credits can normally be condoned. However, on some programmes there may be a requirement to pass specific courses in order to progress to the next stage or to qualify for a particular degree title and this will put restrictions on courses in which failing marks can be condoned (see programme structure above for details). Additionally there are requirements on the number of courses that must be passed in order to qualify for particular joint or combined Honours degrees.

Students are considered for the award and classified on the basis of a weighted average. This is calculated from marks gained in courses taken in stages two and three, and gives twice the weighting to marks gained in stage three. The College's Undergraduate Regulations include full details on progression and award requirements for all undergraduate programmes offered by the College.

Back to top

Student support and guidance

- Personal Advisors: All students are allocated a Personal Advisor who meets with them regularly through the programme. The Advisor's role is to advise on academic, pastoral and welfare issues.
- Joint Honours students in English and Film Studies will have a Personal Adviser in each department.
- The Programme Director provides a back-up system of academic, pastoral and welfare advice.
- All staff available and accessible through dedicated office hours system.
- Emphasis on small group teaching by seminar, workshop and tutorial.
- Detailed student handbook and course resources.
- Representation on the Student-Staff Committee.
- Dedicated Departmental videotape library to support teaching and learning.
- Extensive supporting materials and learning resources in College libraries and Computer Centre.
- Dedicated Departmental editing and digital production facilities, camera equipment, television studio, sound studio (for first year Production Workshop).
- College Careers and Employability Service and Departmental Careers and Employability Tutor.
- Access to all College and University support services, including Student Counselling Service, Health Centre and the Disability and Dyslexia Services for students with disabilities and Specific Learning Difficulties.

Back to top

Admission requirements

Details of the Department's typical offer for each programme of study is available on the Course Finder web page. However, the Department also has flexibility in its admissions and offers policy and strongly encourages applications from non-standard applicants. Students whose first language is not English may also be asked for a qualification in English Language at an appropriate level. For further guidance it may be helpful to contact the Recruitment and Partnerships Office.

Back to top

Further learning and career opportunities

As well as providing a firm foundation for postgraduate study and research, and careers in Media Arts, the degree programme will provide students with skills that are transferable to a wide variety of employment positions. Research opportunities exist within the department for exceptional undergraduates and a significant number choose to pursue further studies to Masters and PhD level at Royal Holloway or other universities. For further details please refer to the Careers & Employability Service.

Back to top

Indicators of quality and standards

Royal Holloway's position as one of the UK's leading research-intensive institutions was confirmed by the results of the most recent Research Excellence Framework (REF 2014) conducted by the Higher Education Funding Council (HEFCE). The scoring system for the REF 2014 measures research quality in four categories, with the top score of 4* indicating quality that is world-leading and of the highest standards in terms of originality, significance and rigour and 3* indicating research that is internationally excellent. 81% of the College's research profile was deemed to be within the 4* or 3* categories, an increase of over 20% since 2008. This result placed Royal Holloway 31st overall in the UK for 4* and 3* research and 33rd based on an overall Grade Point Average (GPA) score.

The Department of Media Arts is ranked 8th in the UK for the overall quality of its research based on the Grade Point Average Score. Based in the department's 4* research outputs, it achieved 8th, and based on its 3* and 4* research outputs, 9th position across all departments for this subject area in the UK.

Back to top

List of programmes

Both programmes are taught entirely by staff at Royal Holloway, University of London, and lead to awards of the University of London. Programmes in Film Studies are not subject to accreditation by a professional body. The QAA subject benchmark statement in Communication, Media, Film and Cultural Studies describes the general features which one might expect from Honours Degree programmes in the subject, and can therefore be used as a point of reference when reading this document (see www.qaa.ac.uk). UCAS codes are given in parentheses (see www.ucas.ac.uk).

Single Honours Degree programmes in Film Studies

- BA Film Studies (W610)

Joint Honours Degree Programmes with Film Studies and another subject as equal components

- BA English and Film Studies (QW36)

Combined Honours Degree programmes with Film Studies as a major component

- BA Film Studies with Philosophy (W6V5)

Back to top